FLATULENCE

Flatulence means a collection of wind and gases in the stomach and intestines and is an unpleasant and annoying condition. The statement from a salesman living at Edgewater, Ill., which follows, proves that Ripans Tabules relieve it entirely. "I have taken Ripans Tabules for nearly three years with extremely satisfactory results," says the gentleman. "I used to be constantly troubled with flatulency and biliousness, but now rarely have an attack even when I neglect taking the Tabules. Being an Englishman I am naturally fond of good strong tea and this used to cause me a great deal of flatulency. Now I can take several cups without fear, as a Ripans Tabule will take care of all the tex I can drink; in fact, I need no longer be careful as to what I eat, providing I take a Tabule afterward. I can partake of the richest dishes without fear, whereas formerly I frequently had to diet myself. I always carry a supply in my vest pocket in one of the small glass vials which I replenish from the large bottles you sell."
